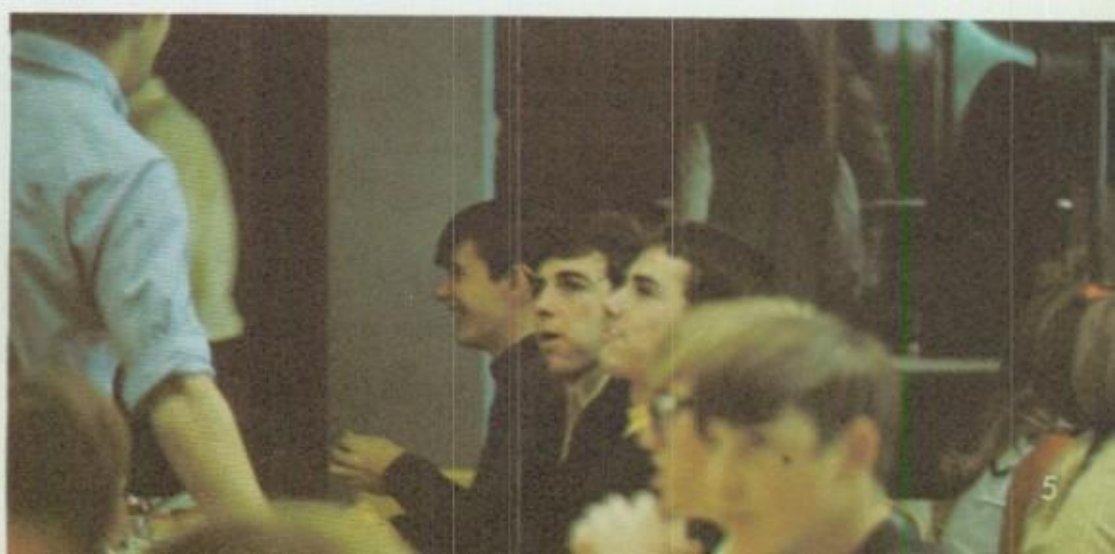
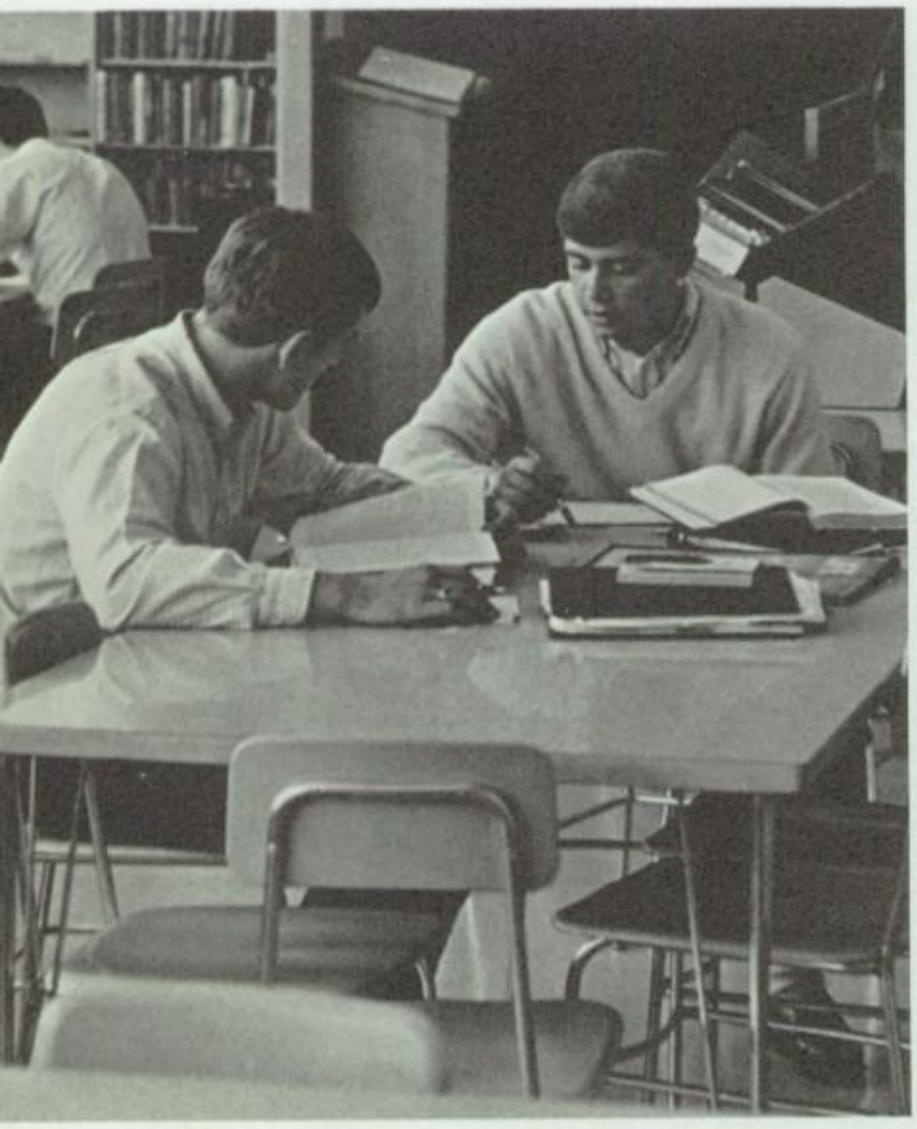
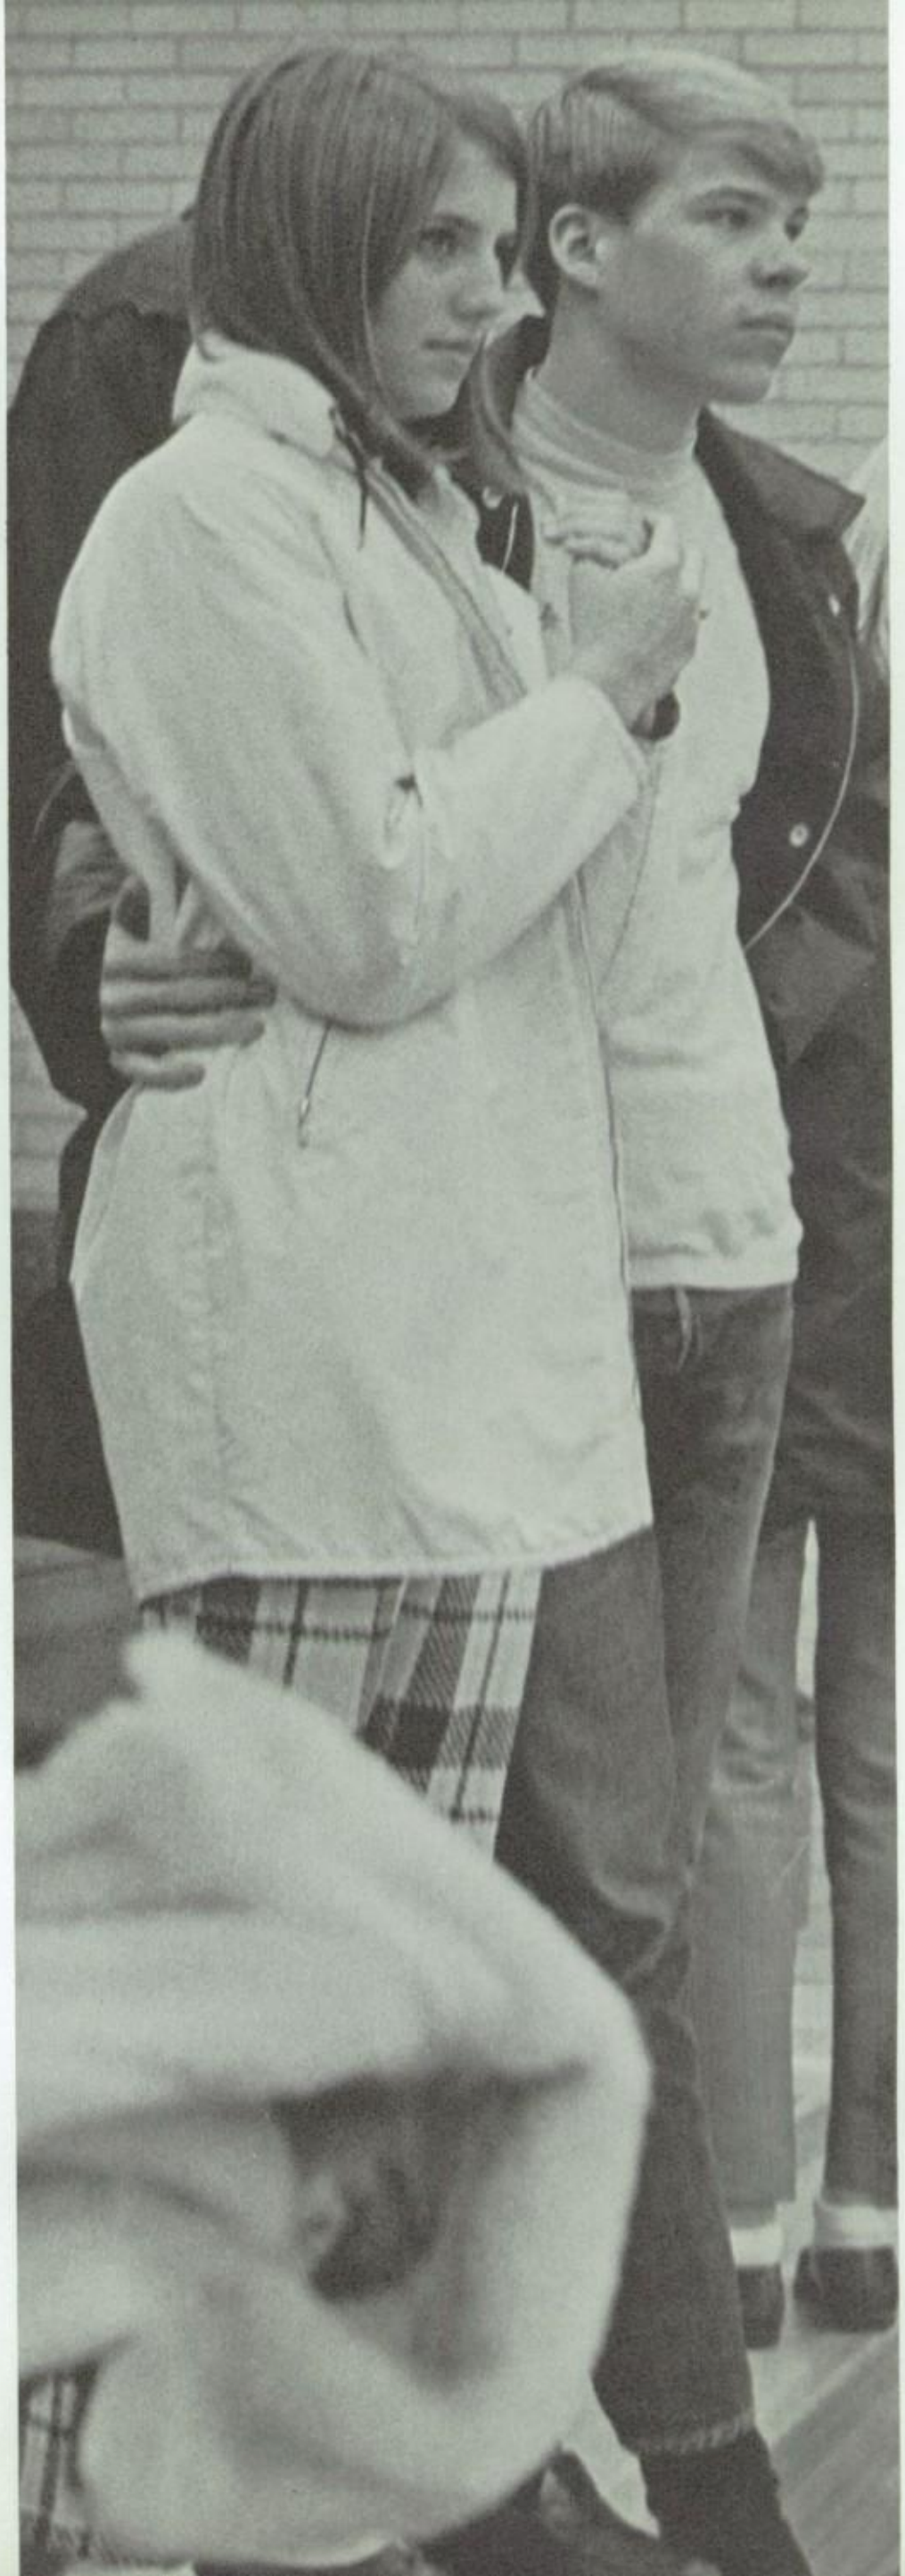
There is a place --

to cherish quiet moments that we lived;





a place to care,
to weave our lives
around others.



Through an open window
it comes back now,
the Septembers
and all the rest...

The images of dreams and people
left behind.

We come, we go until life becomes a pattern of learning the way things are,
of seeing things as they always have been.

Wanting to cheer when there is only silence;
wanting to care when there is no feeling at all.

So we acted the pages of our lives and listened to the music of people going by,

these feelings

For this way of living, for these people,

for this place.

ADMINISTRATION

administration

Dr. Edward W. Parker
Principal

"I have learned that you can't run a school from this chair; you have to move around . . ." And going beyond the boundaries of an administrator, Dr. Parker has tried to meet the student on his own level. To acquaint the student body with vital problems of the world led him to initiate Project Inform — "For students do need to know more than is taught in the regular classroom."

"Students' abilities run up and down. Fortunate is that person who can find the field he most excels in." For each student to realize his ability and his unique place in life is the purpose of education — "But you cannot preach to a student. You can give him the information, but he must choose for himself." To teach a student, and in return to learn how he thinks and feels, Dr. Parker believes, is one reward of his profession. "Sometimes you have to look deep into a student, but you can always find a good quality, for each student is a precious entity in and of himself."

Assistant Principal
Student Personnel

Mr. Palmer — direct, involved, dedicated — a man of definite opinions. "I believe that there is a growing concern of young people to become involved." Students want and need to make their own decisions, and for this reason, Highlanders this year were given the opportunity to decide certain issues for themselves. "I feel the most important aspect in my position is to treat every person as an individual, for it is important to relate with the faculty, students, and administration in such a manner."

Mr. Charles W. Dudley
Assistant Principal
Curriculum

"People need someone who will listen and not make too many personal interpretations," Mr. Dudley explained. A believer in the students he works with, the Vice Principal stated that anyone can formulate his own conclusions if given the opportunity to express his feelings. Stressing lack of motivation as the main problem of students, Mr. Dudley stated there is no specific key to successful counseling, but rather that understanding is attained by "the warmth of one individual reaching out to another."

counselors

Mr. Tucker: "There are two types of students: those concerned about the future and those uncaring even about the present."
Mr. Johnsen: "Some you help guide and others you try to motivate even to attend classes."
Miss Walz: "We have to remember, though, that each student has something to say that we should listen to."
Miss Harvey: "Students are more aware that getting along with others is tremendously important to them."
Mr. Tucker: "We have to be careful to understand those students who don't feel anything towards the school or even toward other students."
Miss Harvey: "A counselor must be able to see a half-dozen viewpoints, not be bound by just one."
Mr. Johnsen: "We're here to help, to listen — not always to criticize or discipline."
Miss Walz: "We have to understand and to tolerate — and we try."

Secretaries — people with interesting opinions. Mrs. Blunk, supply secretary, wishes we could "all trade places, so we could understand each others problems." Mrs. Gisseman, computer secretary, says of "problem students," "show them trust and they will help you in any way they can." Mrs. Fairbanks of the bookstore feels that "students today are more free and able to express themselves," — Different ideas from dedicated ladies who all share one common feeling, "We just love kids."

There is one team at Highland seldom mentioned on the P.A. — what a team of good, hardworking people. Friendly and conscientious, the janitorial staff has pulled us through another victorious season in its fight against dirt. But who can forget the pleasant women of Highland's kitchen? Where else can one buy a seven course lunch for only 49¢ and be served with a smile? Through cinnamon rolls and mashed potatoes, our mealtime mothers have nourished the greatest of Highlanders.

"Roles are constantly challenged . . . who is to say what a student is, what a teacher is, even what education is . . .?"

1969 brought a new questioning of values by administrators, students, and faculty of Highland High — an attempt to understand the changing nature of the student, and his role in education. The Highland faculty — diversified, dynamic individuals — a contrast of philosophies, personalities, and attitudes, sought to answer the demands for better education by challenging themselves, students, and established curriculum. "We must try to make learning meaningful to today's world." Some are liberal, others conservative; one distrusts "serious intellectual leftists." Some are Mormon, some Protestant, some Catholic, a few agnostic. Some meet apathy with apathy, others with warmth, understanding, believing: "It's hard to work with those who don't care — it's a challenge to care myself."

Teaching methods vary from traditional to progressive, but each department is instrumental in helping students relate the classroom to life — homemaking, business, and industrial arts classes through specific skills; drama, art, and music through "appreciation, awareness." In athletics, students benefit from "the new

The language department emphasizes the audio-visual-lingual approach, and the "inherent importance of all languages." "By letting kids decide about issues, and not telling them 'this is the way it is,' we're trying to make history meaningful," a social sciences department member stated. The final means by which a student learns, communicates, and understands is English . . . Highland —

Words alone cannot express the deep feelings of a true Highlander. Within your realms there exists a silent dream. It is yours because you work and want and wait. It is a dream that prefers the challenge of life to mere existence, and you thrill to the fulfillment of that dream. Precision in your endeavors has put you on the heights of glory, yet you continue to conquer in the best of competition. A Ram ascends to the peaks of mountain tops; you ascend to the peaks of your hopes and dreams. But like the Ram that sometimes cannot reach those peaks, you, too must sometimes forfeit your goals, but your ability to overcome defeat and to move on to goals of even greater magnitude has given you strength and has marked you above the rest as a school of conquering spirit.

An "H" is lighted on a mountainside, "Hail Highland High" is sung softly while tears of pride stream from the eyes of those who love you. You not only become a "way of life," you are life and your being takes on many shapes and forms. Fear of the unknown and excitement with the known dominates all you encounter. Your unpredictable existence brought to life your production of "Camelot" as several thousand people marveled with mixed emotions at the caliber of your talent.

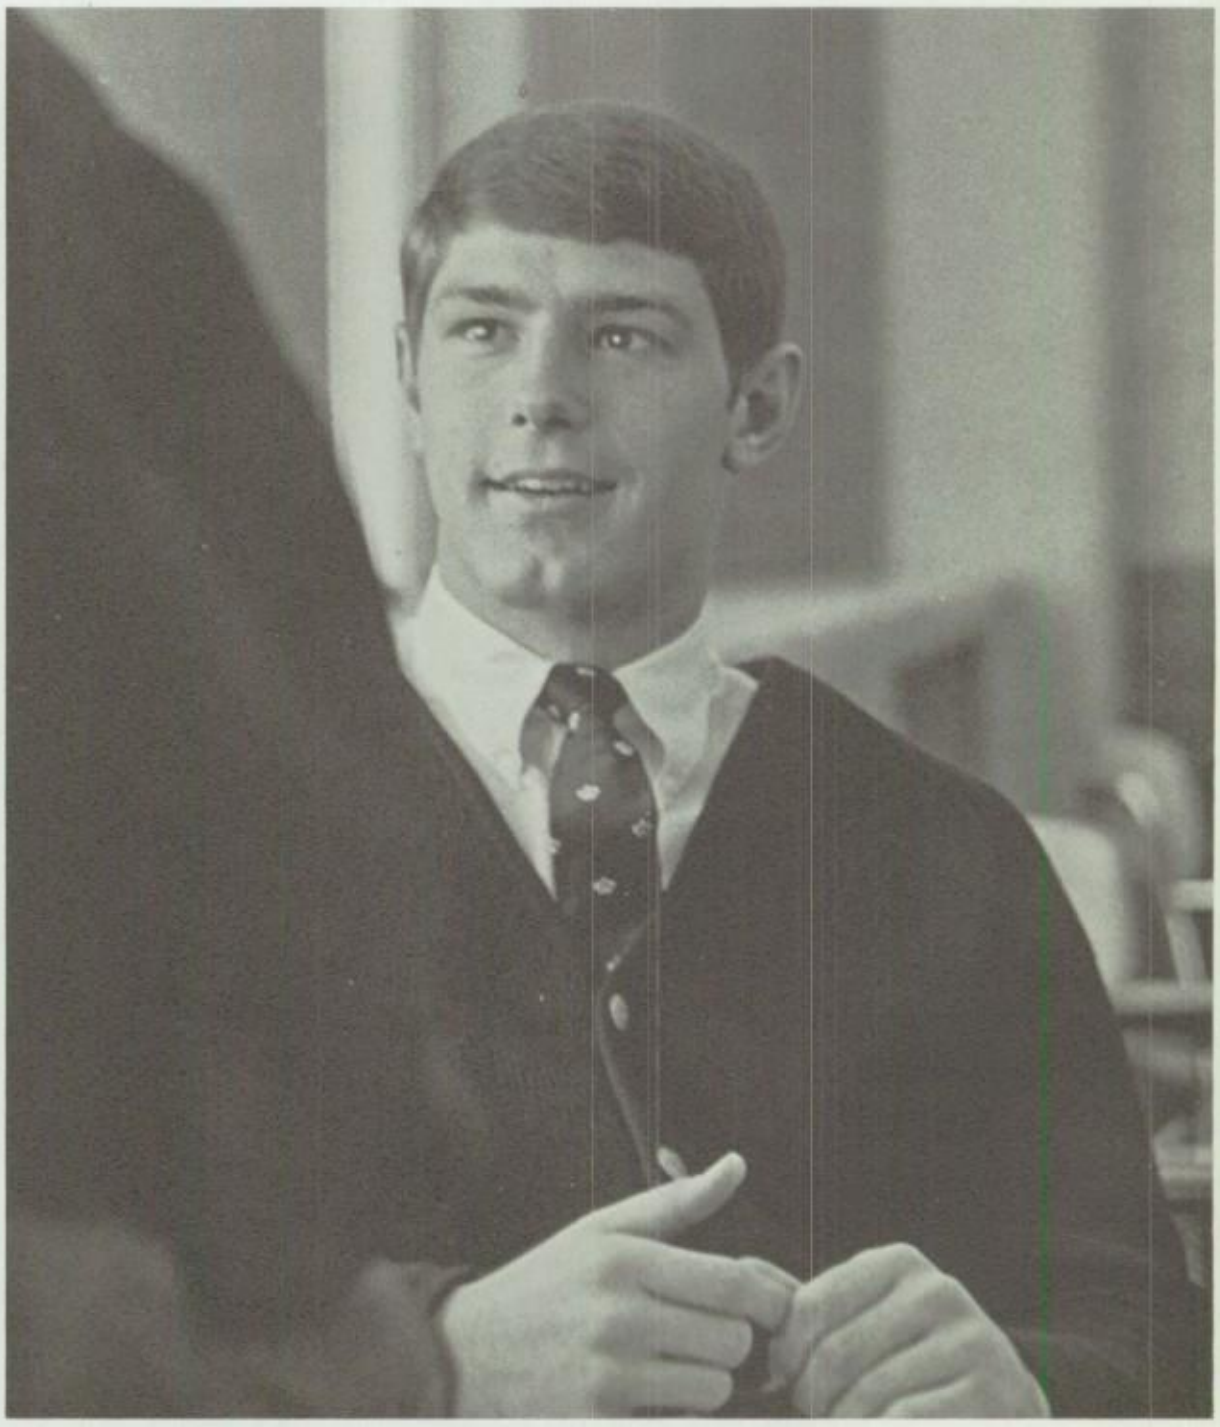
Three short years we look for you, searching to know you, and in that time we laugh, we cry, we hurt, but in the end we have found you. You are the Mighty Rams pushing, striving, maintaining, and accomplishing what is yours to have. You are the Lassies in spirit and pride, giving all you can to maintain your excellence. You are the intellects who have won deserved honor. Your publications in "black and white" have recorded your greatness. Each in their own way will find you.

I can only give you my congratulations for a job well done and thank you from the bottom of my heart for the endless opportunities you have given to me. You will always be a friend and a part of my life.

What lies in tomorrow depends not on you as a whole, but on the individual, for each is part of the whole . . . and the whole is Highland.

Respectfully,

Mike Coulam



student body officers

Bill Bennion
vice president

Bennion's world. Sensitive, boyish — funny, a sometimes-not-too-real world, of making people look and laugh, of funny old clothes, "tell me it isn'ts," and weird jokes. A world of things he values — tennis, friends, the unusual, the unique. Watch Bennion — his loping walk, little-brother smile, contagious laugh, irrepressible spirits.

Allison Wiscomb
secretary

Allison . . . is her smile, complete and simply happy — an energy always thinking, always doing, in a way that reaches others. Deeply she cares — about people, her future — yet freely she lives; she is herself. An expressive face, a laugh that makes others want to laugh, too — all are a part of the unchanging charisma of someone special — Allison Wiscomb.

Mark Durham
second vice president

Dur — genuine; sincere in his desire for perfection. One who is completely involved — in art, in humor, in living. A self-styled wit that comes unexpectedly; original ideas that become reality — the 1969 card section, the "repel them" cheer. His goal is to excel the legend of Highland's past.
Dur — puzzling, sometimes; respected, always.

Sunny Hill
historian

Sunny . . . days of never-ending laughter portraying her little-girl moments. Caring days of sentimental tears — for Highland and its people. Times of confidence — in herself and what she wants to accomplish. She is spontaneous, always in motion.
And when she is there . . . the day is Sunny.

board of control

Improvement. It takes time, often constructive, many times wasteful. Is the discussion worthwhile? Financing activities, the wearing of mustaches, beards, sideburns, and smoking on school grounds are problems faced every year. Does the debate concerning these issues bring about a solution? For the first time, Highland's budget was not only discussed; several changes were made. The question of mustaches, beards, and sideburns was answered, in part, by allowing students to determine their standards. Improvement. It takes time . . .

h.a.m. & h.a.w.

Men — the rugged, tough backbone of the school, displayed their masculinity this year with fuzzy beards, grinding flag football, and by occasionally escorting a woman to a dance. Go ahead, Highland men, flex a little, you pulled us through another great year. And after man, there was woman — with her fashion shows, teas, and dances, and more fashion shows, teas, and dances. Now isn't that just like a woman — a Highland Associated Woman?

"It's an in-between year . . . "
A class of extremes with no one in the middle:
Some living in thoughtful solitude;
Others who are never alone,
surrounded by enthusiasm.
"Oh, I don't know —
it's a lot of things . . ."
A year of certainty; confusion; anticipation;
A year of learning from other people why to become a part.
"I didn't want school to start,
I don't want it to end —
I just like being a Junior."

MING

First times —
a newborn feeling suspended in uncertainty.

Seeing in others the same hope of becoming a part,
the same look of trying to find a place.

Envying the sureness of others, knowing a sureness will be theirs —
in time.

"In the development of the United Nations lies the only true alternative to war. . . . Mankind must put an end to war, or war will put an end to mankind."

— John F. Kennedy

Highland's Model United Nations strived to achieve an understanding and thus a means of ending conflicts between countries. While some remain unconcerned with the problems of the world, members of the M.U.N. Club made an effort to learn about the conditions of other nations by representing Upper Volta, the Malagasy Republic, and the Dominican Republic.

Dear Highlanders,

For me, this year has been a time of doing things for the first time; for example, this was my first year at an American high school, and I was lucky to get the chance to have it here at Highland. This was also the year of seeing cheerleaders and a pep club for the first time. I had never before had this special feeling you get when you cheer for your own team. My voice has been hoarse, my hands have been sore from clapping, and I have been exhausted; but it did not matter, because it made me a part of Highland.

After being here just a short time, I was invited to become a Hi-Deb. It has been a wonderful experience, doing everything from entertaining sick children to singing Valentines for lovers. I have also enjoyed the Model U.N. and Russian Club.

This is my first and last year as an A.F.S. student, and I would like to do it all over again. It is because of you — you are all wonderful, and you have made this year unforgettable.

I shall always be proud to be a Highlander.

Tack för det här året!

The so-called "pseudo cherubs" of the debate team are a group of activists seriously involved in the research and discussion of such issues as Viet Nam and the Draft. Articulate and aggressive, members range on the political scale from the very conservative, the very liberal, and the "radical and unreasonable." They judge each other on the basis of concern for programs that determine how they must live, as well as honesty in providing a solution. Yet despite all their effective means of evaluation, there does seem to have been falacious reasoning in the fragmentary analysis of such debate personalities as "Ice Cream Baron," "Gory," and "Toad."

The expertness of the Highland debators is exemplified in winning all three major tournaments— Carbon, Alpine, and Weber; and in placing members in the top three divisions of every individual event. With these numerous achievements the 1969 Forensics team completed an undefeated season and captured the coveted State championship.

PHIL GILSON—head cheerleader, known as the "amphibian," is a mixture of co-ordination and desire. The All-American, twice All-State diver, combines his talent with

JUDY SCHUBACH — explosive; putting aside minor mishaps — a kicked eye, a fumbled cheer — with a shrug and a laugh. Her zany, unpredictable humor is equalled only by that of

BRENT PROCTOR—the "Proctor Kid"—a yea! yea! yea! laughing-out-loud kind of person who is always responsive, always spirited — creating a mood at games with

BECKY KASAI — one whose enthusiasm is gentle, yet effective. Her genuine personality proves that spirit comes not only from noise, but from composure, shown also by FRANK MATHESON — a person who generates excitement while performing skills in an unaffected style; his unruffled attitude is seen also in the ability of his partner,

ANN BEVERIDGE — a polished cheerleader whose poise is shown by the ease and perfection in which she performs. Apart they are individuals; together they are one — one for Highland.

Pep Club . . .
Somewhere within laughing and crying;
Sometime between a moment and forever.
A unity of black and white — times of tasseled cheering; then caring;
always giving.
From their first heart-stopping moment of Hello Day
To the final exit cadence of their last march, Pep Club was somewhere within; sometime between — us all.

The image traditionally held by the Highland High Key Club is one of service, respect, and discipline. Distinguished by herringbone Norfolk jackets, Key Club members ushered at assemblies and at the school play "Camelot." In addition, selling programs at games and helping decorate for the Boys' Dance were activities presided over by the Key Club.

1969 was a year of new ideas, and perhaps the most unique was the 1969 Highland Men's Card Section — the center of spirit and a contributing factor to victory in the basketball season. The organization of the card section and traditional lighting of the "H" on the mountainside saw Key Club providing the manpower and enthusiasm to make both projects a success.

As a service organization, the thirty-one members of Hi-Debs gave a Halloween performance at Primary Children's Hospital, and helped on a March of Dimes Drive. An alumni tea, "subbing for Santa," a first-place homecoming float, and those famous "singing valentines" — all were part of the varied activities of Hi-Debs.

and there we would be with our hands in the pockets of our gray days and amber sunshine turning around and smiling quietly — remembering places and people each with themselves,

the laughs that lasted,
the dreams that faded . . .

and knowing all the while that what was,
was for us a moment —
one that we lived in a very short while.

rambler

Rambler staff — strong personalities intensified by their dynamic sponsor, Bette Smith. Sometimes radical, usually controversial — the newspaper that reports school news "as it happens and as we see it." For the thirteenth consecutive year, despite a combined staff effort with In Black and White, Rambler failed to defeat a brutal Highlander staff.

"Windward" — the culmination of a year's learning and effort for twenty-six members of In Black and White, members deeply enthusiastic about their project. Through unit work in the areas of short story, poetry, one-act play, and essay, the In Black and White staff achieved an objective of originality by developing individual writing skills.

The romance of candlelight, long gowns, and white tuxedos — a tradition marking the Madrigal singers with distinction. From Gloria Patri by Giovanni Palestrina to Fugue in C Minor by Bach, the variations of music included devotional songs, late Renaissance music, early sacred, and choral repertory. The Madrigals performed at such places as Fort Douglas and Promontory Point, and were given a performance of Gregorian chants by the monks of the Huntsville monastery.

Early morning — a saxophone breaks through the sound of silence; rises, ends abruptly on a strained note; a trumpet surges briefly; a piano key drums softly in the background — sounds of musicians perfecting complex instrumentation. The Stage Band, holding 7:00 A.M. classes, connects Highland with the world of jazz through assemblies, concerts, and most significantly, the National Festival in Reno, Nevada. Morning — a saxophone breaks through . . . the Stage Band progresses.

Highland's Concert Band is united in the desire to perform to the extent of its ability. Activities have included presentations at high school and junior high exchanges, Christmas programs, the Highland Showcase, and region competition. In these events the members of the Concert Band have shown serious motivation for what they value most, music. Their dedication for music and the artistic presentation of its many forms are shared by their director, Carolyn Shumway.

Crowds filling an already-packed gymnasium, caught up by a steady beat — loud, rhythmatic, engaging; spirit heightens. Through rousing interpretations of "We're Rolling Down the Floor," "The Gillette Song," "Everybody's Singing," and "Take Five," the Highland Pep Band provides a hand-clapping, foot-stomping impetous to school spirit — setting a mood through enthusiasm by playing at all home football and basketball games, and pep assemblies — "Life without pep is dead."

orchestra

Music . . . worlds for deeper understanding pursued by Highland's orchestra, with an emphasis on contrast — of tone, mood, instrumentation. Tschaikowsky's 5th Symphony, Andante, the Lalo Violin Concerto, Beethoven's Violin Concerto — variations of sound, fulfilling feelings. The 1969 performing season of the Highland Orchestra was marked with both contrast and achievement, with three very special performances — Bach's Double Violin Concerto, The Cundick Violin Concerto, a father's tribute to his son, and Camelot — the culmination of a season which included performances at the Highland Showcase, the University of Utah Invitational Orchestra Festival, two concerto concerts, a spring music festival, and participation in Region II competition.

The R.O.T.C. is an extensive three-year program where each class learns a specific field of military techniques. The Sophomore class is concerned with army organization and opportunities whereas the Junior class concentrates on camouflage, communications and small-unit tactics. While Senior cadets study atomic warfare, large-unit tactics, and map reading, they also teach the inexperienced underclassmen. The R.O.T.C. newspaper, Protocall, along with the newly-developed co-educational rifle team kept the Reserve Officers Training Corps busy.

A positive alternative to apathy is involvement. Highland's clubs afford the opportunity for students who share the same interests to get to know each other. One means of involvement is through the Future Teacher's of America Club. The purpose of F.T.A. is to inform members of new methods of teaching, its problems and rewards as a profession. As a service project, students at Rosslyn Heights were tutored by the F.T.A. to acquaint members with teaching.

Diversified

from academic to athletic, Doestoyevsky to a gutter ball, Highland's clubs provide opportunities for each individual to excel in his specific field of interest. While the Great Books Club stimulates through interpretation, debate, and discussion of such authors as Vergil, Gogol, Moliere, and Euripides; the Bowling Club provides an opportunity for interested students to participate and compete in a sport commonly enjoyed.

On another side of organizations, Highland's language clubs meet student interests by acquainting them with the customs of foreign countries — thus providing a means of social learning and new experience. Through a St. Catherine's Day celebration, dinner in a French restaurant, movies, slides, and lectures, members gained insight into French culture. The German Club attended an intriguing lecture presented by a Yugoslavian officer in the German army, who was at one time captured by the Russians. In addition, they saw movies on the Berlin Wall, joined the Russian Club treasure hunt, and learned the art of European cuisine. Their Spanish associates involved themselves with a taco bust, and the movie "Apaloosa" — increasing appetites with appreciation. The first year Latin Club member begins with his initiation in which togas and stolas are worn and a slave auction on a "no refund" basis is held. A secret ritual at Memory Grove is later performed completely in Latin. Time is then devoted to its newspaper with such columns as "Sola Corda," the Lonely Hearts; the reading of Latin literature, plays, and song fests.

symphony sub-debs and squires

Cultural aspects of the Utah Symphony are studied in all phases by the Highland High Symphony Sub-Debs and Squires. As a unit of the Utah Symphony League which includes symphony performers, University and high school students, the thirty-nine members were educated in the development of the Utah Symphony and its cultural effect. Through monthly social symposiums, seasons tickets to symphony activities, ushering at the performance of the Vienna Boys' Choir, and a Symphony Ball on February 28, the Sub-Debs and Squires sought to promote the Utah Symphony by making others aware of its importance to the community.

From the first,

individual expression and creativity were the main objectives of Dance Club. To say what cannot be said in mediums other than dance was a means of communication for its members. A beginning of excitement was highlighted by a candle-lit ceremony and friendship circle. Later, Tim Wengard of the Repertory Dance Theatre instructed the master class for those interested in pursuing dance as a career. Tryouts for choreographers and dancers preceeded the long hours of practice for the Dance Concert. The concert was the final presentation evolving from efforts to experiment with the new and different.

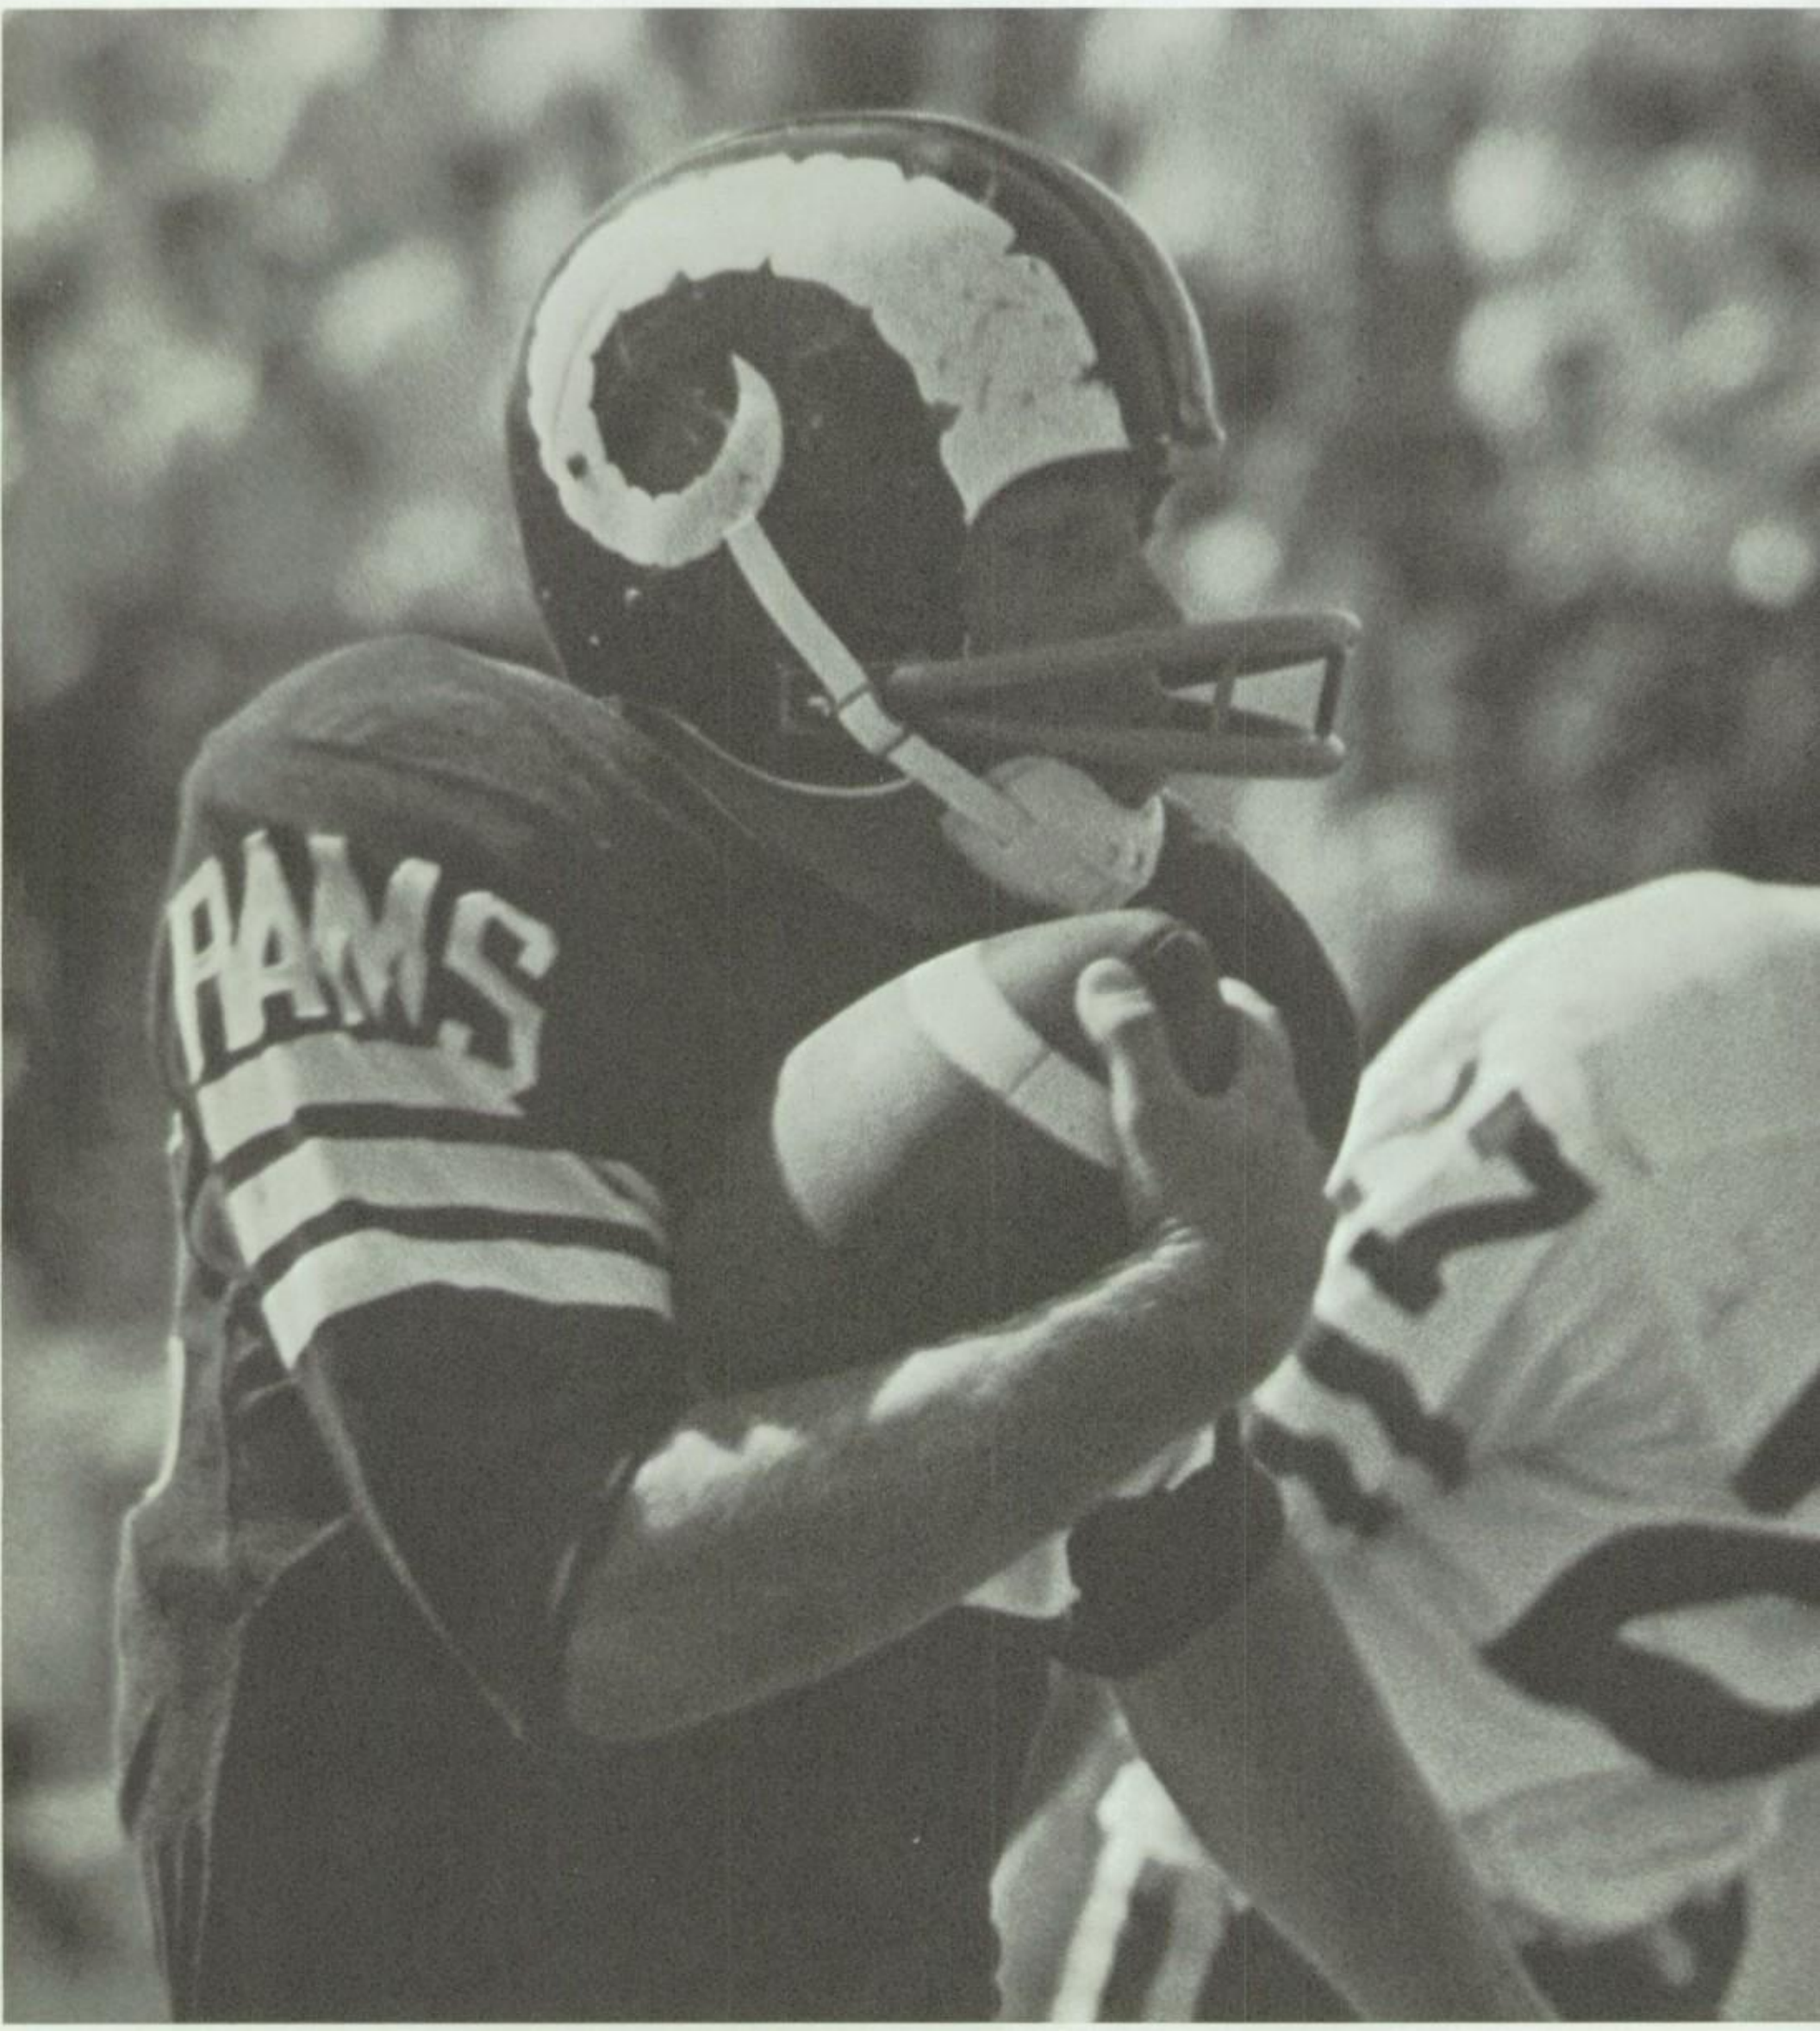
On paper, the 1969 Highland football record was a 5-5; on the field it was more — the many upsets, the times of looking good, the times of almost crushing defeat; and the times of learning that football is often just a game played for inches. A pre-season forecast of Division Two play foreshadowed a four team fight between Highland, Skyline, South, and East. Early promise marked the Ram team; Coach Bill Fickinger's "well-rounded" squad included a dedicated quarter back, imposing ends, a "Texas Hurricane," and the remainder of an offensive and defensive line that fought fire with fire.

A 12-0 pre-season opener over Viewmont gave credibility to Highland's optimism; the spirit of drive rampaged itself fully into the season. Despite the bitter taste of defeat met in a loss to East, 33-6, with a mistake jinx of a fumbled ball and stalled plays, the full power of the Ram team exploded in a come-from-behind upset over Davis, 27-21. Under the lights, the Ram team reduced to dust all hopes of a Davis "cinch-victory."

Using the thrust of quick sprinters and hard-core defense, Highland quickly recovered Bountiful fumbles, and picked up initial yardage that led to a 33-6 victory over the Braves. Continuing realization of handicaps came in the form of the Highland-South game, with the Rams coming up second, 6-37. For a listless team and equally listless student body, defeat brought new awareness that winning involves the spirit of the people as much as the playing of the game.



RAMS

The long road back to victory saw a revitalized Ram squad overcome the Olympus Titans, 33-13, and the Box Elder Bees, 7-0. The ups and downs of the gridiron showed Highland's loss to West, 13-23, a 20-7 victory over Clearfield, and a loss to Layton, 7-14.

And the last game of the season — a loss to Skyline, 27-21. Although Skyline retained a narrow, hard-fought lead, Highland never gave up — in yardage or in spirit. As quoted in the Deseret News, November 2, 1968, "Although the Rams lost the scoring duel, they didn't lose the cheering battle. The Ram cheering section can still boast the loudest and longest cheering section in the state." All in all, this season was one of new learning and awareness. For Head Coach Fickinger, 1969 was the termination of seven years of dedication for his teams and seven years of respect from Highland.

Faces in the crowd reflecting action on the court — when using the full-court press, the players were overpowering; when patterning a shot, always using precisioned accuracy. Determination paced the Ram team with a 9-3 season record and Region Two championship.

The opening week of State Tournament play saw Highland adorned with "Rams Take State" posters and an unprecedented 147' by 36' banner on the outside of the auditorium wall — "A Time of Triumph." On March 3, an assembly presented the basketball players with circular caricatures and individual tributes. Monday night's game saw the Rams crush Ogden, 71-60; with an early impetus, full court press and tight zone defense.

On March 5, Highland led Murray the entire game, but at one time the Spartans surged to within three points. Then the cheerleaders held up the sign "NOISE," and "Those Ram backers didn't stop screaming, and when the sign went down, the score read 64-52." The game ended at 69-60, sending Highland into the semifinals against the Watusi Braves of Bountiful. Predictions for Friday's game were varied; the game even more so — tied nine times; the lead changed hands seven times. In the final analysis, height was the determining factor, for the Braves cornered 56 rebounds to Highland's 34, finally winning 89-70.

The final score of the last, disappointing State game was 65-69, Box Elder, but Highlanders were remembering the words of Dick Rosetta, "The Rams had the biggest cheering section, the loudest cheering section, and the cheering section which stood up the most." Despite the losses, the 1969 Basketball season brought to life Mike Coulam's words, "In victory or in defeat, this year is a Time of Triumph."

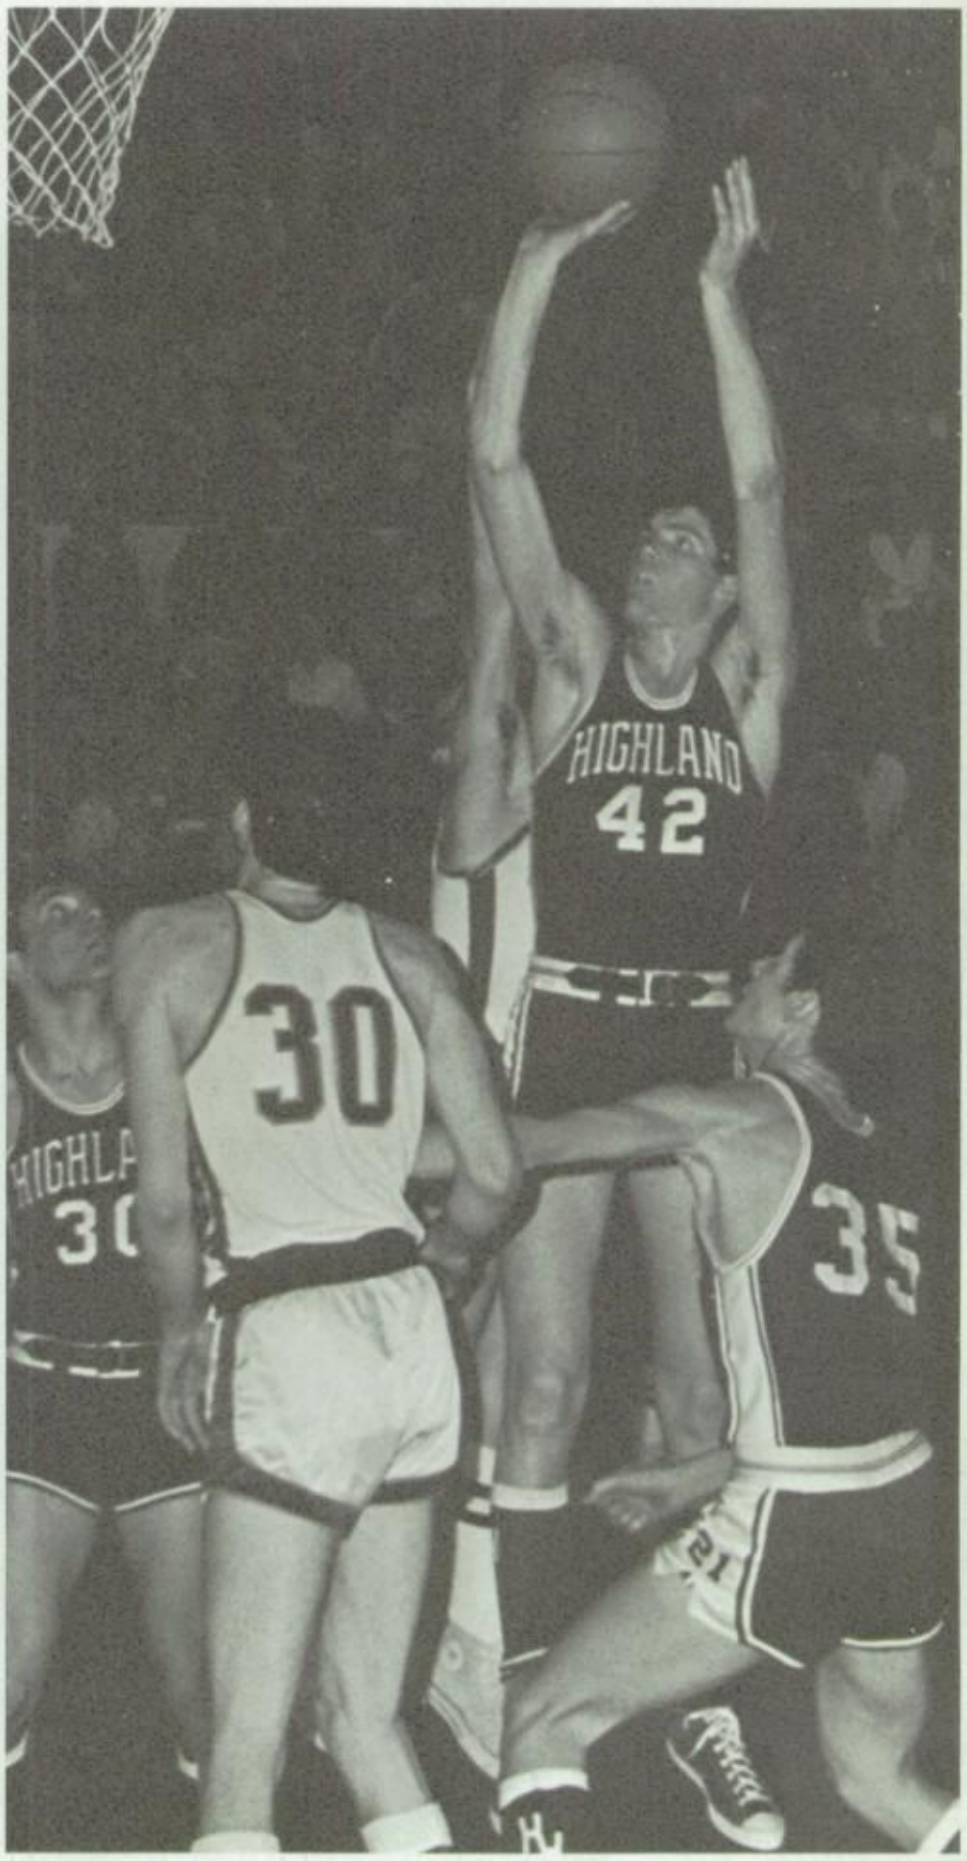
The first game of the season was played during the Christmas holidays, and it was a crushing defeat for Highland in a 72 to 87 tilt to East. The Rams progressed in success, though, and met the Leopards again on January 17, when victory changed hands in a dramatic 80 to 71 game for Highland. The last game of Highland against East on February 21 was important, for both teams wanted to prove superiority. Highland succeeded — branding East with a victory of 85 to 80.



highland 66 . . . south 61
highland 87 . . . south 64
highland 82 . . . south 75

South faced its worst record in the history of the school this season, with Highland contributing greatly. Skyline acted as neutral court in Highland's first encounter with South on January 14. The victory was a resounding 87 to 64 for Highland. The South High Cubs proved not-so-easy to defeat in the January 24 game, when the Rams pulled through with a score of 66 to 61. The last game saw a dejected South High team lose again in a semi-battle of 82 to 75.

In the first game against Olympus on January 10, the Titans came to a winning score of 72 to 66. On January 28, Highland was again defeated by Olympus in a game which ended at 69 to 87. The game of February 14 was crucial only in determining ladder rankings for tournament play; a fine season record saw Rams already slated for state action. Highland played against Olympus vigorously; in a panicky three minute overtime the Rams inched past Olympus, 79 to 77.

highland 82 . . . skyline 77
highland 73 . . . skyline 67
highland 92 . . . skyline 72

The Highland Rams played their first January game on the third against Skyline. The home-court advantage for the Eagles did not discourage the Rams, who surged to an 82 to 77 victory. The Rams did not let-up in the second game against Skyline, January 31, and pressed until the buzzer sounded at the end of the fourth quarter at 73 to 67. On February 7, the Rams again defeated the drowning Eagles in the widest margin of their three-game play — 92 to 72.

On March 28, the Highland Track Team tied defending State champion, Skyline, for the first time in track history. The thinclads increased their margin of success with a 72-60 trample over Granite and a 73-39 victory against Viewmont. Greatest strength was shown in running events with a rigorous pace set by Tom Jensen, half-mile, Steve Harker, 440, and Steve Thiese, sprints. Field events were led by Steve Richards, pole vault, and Bob Peterson, discus. In addition to an indoor winter program in which sprinters raced through the halls, covering 220 yards in 28 seconds or less, tracksters completed a rigorous training schedule with set-distance intervals of running and walking.

"It takes a great deal of skill to hit a baseball and some boys are just not able to succeed in the sport." This year's team proved it was able to succeed in the sport through the use of split second plays and well-planned maneuvers.

The Tennis Team officially began its 1969 season on April 1, with a 5-0 victory against East High. On April 2, the Ram netters defeated Skyline High, 3-2. From the very beginning, this year's team set standards that have been so evident in years past, with a record of five out of six possible State titles and nine out of ten possible Region titles. The State experience of B. Tucker and J. Anderson, as well as the leadership of B. Bennion and S. Stevenson, who each received first place in singles for the tournaments '67 and '68, added to the netter roster for another unmatched year.

Golf, formerly known as Cow Pasture Pool, is a more complex sport than its earlier name indicates. In order to out-swing and under-par opponents, golf team members are expected to practice drives, putts, and sandtrap shots with accuracy and concentration. Selection of the golf team was based on tryouts held at the Bonneville golf course. After a week of competition, the twelve best golfers were chosen to represent Highland at all inter-school tournaments. Both of two practice matches against Granite High proved victorious for the Highland golfers with scores of 167 to 151 and 161 to 147. Despite an occasional bogey and double-bogey, the twelve members hooked, sliced, and eagled their way into an anticipated victory for the first league tournament against Bountiful on April 1 and into the overall golf season, as well.

Paced by the rigorous training of Hal Hardcastle, the cross-country team ran — over the hills, through the woods, and around the football field. Between numerous wind sprints, the team jogged at an average of six miles a day. Defeating Davis, Bountiful, Box Elder, and West, the team completed the season with a four win, three loss record, and training for region competition went into full progress. The University of Utah campus provided aspirants a place to compete, where Highlanders received a fourth place in state competition.

Catch-as-catch-can may be the method, but sheer strength and skill were the means by which Highland grapplers concluded a successful season — an 8-5 win-loss record for season meets and a 5-5 for region meets. By close association with Coach Lynn Foxley and other members of the athletics department, the members of the wrestling team learned and perfected individual throws and holds, and trained specifically for individual weight classifications. Strategic meets included a loss to Clearfield, with a score of 24-21, and a victory over Layton, 36-11. Setting a new record for Highland wrestlers, senior Bruce Larsen went undefeated in season matches, placed third in region competition, and won state honors. Looking at the over-all performance of the team, Coach Foxley concluded, "All the boys worked extremely hard."

"The winningest team at Highland" has not only achieved a traditional no-loss record for "A" and "B" squads, but has presented the school with the third state championship in three years and the fourth consecutive Zander Cup — the highest award given each fall to a superior Utah soccer team. A growing interest in soccer is seen in a new awareness of the student body and in an increasing devotion by the team itself — all this despite the fact that soccer is recognized by neither the athletic department nor the administration of Highland. From an initial meeting in which Craig Jacobs, Kent Parker, and Tom Swallow were selected as co-captains, supervision of the team has come from members themselves. A rigorous training schedule of approximately two hours each night and on weekends, with drills in kicking, dribbling, and scrimmage are all elements which have been instrumental in the precision and degree of success of soccer this year.

The 1969 soccer season saw a tough, dedicated team advance to the "A" class Zander Cup championship by defeating Bountiful, 3-1, in the finals. A brutal win over West, 7-0, and an impressive victory, 4-1, over an all-star team consisting of the two best players from each team in the state gave impetus to the determination of a team that refused to be beaten. By winning the championship, soccer Rams were able to compete for division honors in Los Angeles. Lacking foreign players, for the first time in years, the achievements of the Ram team proved that soccer is rapidly becoming an American sport for many progressive American players and spectators.

The 1968-69 swimming team, "Aquarams," brought home the first region championship in Highland's history this year . . . an achievement gained through the efforts of twenty-two team members, a capable coach, and two-hour workouts, daily. The team showed great potential from the very first meets with a 65-30 shut-out over Skyline, and a promising 69-34 victory over West. As the season progressed, past school records were broken in all but three events. On February 15, the swimming season was culminated in the State Meet. Receiving not only a strong 4th place, but the added recognition of Phil Gilson's first place award in diving, the team proved in action their ability in a highly competitive sport.

Gliding down an endless field of white, hour after blissful hour, week-end after week-end, the twenty-four members of the ski team found exhilaration in Highland's favorite winter sport, skiing. The ski team is selected from accomplished members of the Ski Club, many of whom race with other teams, and all of whom surpass the "gliding easiness" of the ski world by concentrating on the speed of downhill motion and the perfection of form. Through the accomplishment of both speed and skill, the members of the ski team hope to realize the life-long goal of participating in the Olympics. In the meantime, however, in addition to schushing the straights, poling the turns, and jumping unparalleled moguls on week-ends, ski team members prepared for the Knudson Cup Races, April 5. Honors won at the Knudson Cup Races evolve from practice at Brighton on Millicent and at Park City West, resulting in added recognition for a little-recognized organization.

pre-school rally aug. 28

A fusion of ideas and memories from past victories and defeats . . .

New faces, familiar faces: joyful, tearful, quiet in reminiscence.

A mass of black and white reflected in the halls,

A proud team with victory already behind them . . .

A pep club whose tears of disappointment in unarrived uniforms turned into tears of triumph and pride.

A renewal of goals, of hope, of spirit —

A Time of Triumph.

hello day sept. 6

kick off dance sept. 14

First impressions of Highlanders and the 1969 school year were formed even before school had begun at the pre-school rally, August 27. After rocking-out to the music of the Deseret Mining Company on the tennis courts, students gathered in the stadium to hear Mike Coulam speak to them for the first time as Student Body President. Guest speaker Jim Gilson later told Highlanders to enjoy living now in this, "the time of your life."

The Hello Day assembly, September 6, marked the introduction of Board of Control members, Pep Club, and administration. The student body officers musically described each other to a setting of Big Macs and garbage cans, and "you've never seen anything like it in your life." President Mike Coulam expressed the confidence of each Highlander having his own moments of glory. "In victory or in defeat, this year is a time of triumph — and now begins A Time of Triumph."

On September 14, an old-fashioned kick-off dance, sponsored by Highlander staff, set the precedent for original and well-planned dance decorations. A center gazebo encompassed the Marty Pond Combo, and elaborate wrought iron garden furniture "requisitioned" from throughout the community added to the old-fashioned aura.

utah symphony assembly sept. 26

With the assistance of Maestro Maurice Abravanel, and Mr. Paul Christensen, students learned "what to listen for" in preparation for the Utah Symphony assembly, September 26. The entire program increased student awareness in musical form, as each individual number exemplified a particular style — "Romeo and Juliet" in Sonata Allegro form, "Tocatta and Fugue in D Minor," an organ recital transcribed for orchestra, and the "Eroica Symphony," which introduced a fugate in a funeral march.

Turning interests to another form of entertainment, Highland's Associated Women presented a fashion show based around the theme "The Wizard of HAWs" on October 1. The latest styles in fashion were modeled in sequence as star performer "Dor-Haw-Thy" ventured through unknown lands in pursuit of a fashionable wardrobe and her lost lover, Terence Tailor. Later, a tea was given in the social room and Highland girls were allowed to get a close-up view of fashions presented in the show.

Humor at its most absurd — the Highland Pep Assemblies. The South football skit saw scores of Highland boys regress back to childhood days by skivying across the gym floor with an occasional group pounce, as each boy became another's football. A few Senior Women later accompanied sophomore Lin Thompson in a rousing half-time rendition of "I Don't Want To Set The World On Fire." A "barnyard" theme was used for the Skyline Pep Assembly, as Farmer Greenjeans and Captain K.J. commentated. For the Skyline basketball Pep Assembly, Junior Gordie Hall was hatched from an egg as a baby eagle. Later extinguished, the bird was unremittingly flipped about the gym floor. On February 14, such Highland heroes as "Mr. Big," played by Hal Hardcastle, and the unforgettable "Baby Face," portrayed by Marv Hogenson, staged a re-enactment of the St. Valentine's Day Massacre. A massive funeral took place for the East assembly on February 21. While nearly half the student body mourned for an Easterner who died from "leopardsy", a funeral hymn of "Rams of Highland" was sung to the tune of "Rock of Ages."

homecoming oct. 9

Chicken wire hours of endless work were spent on floats and displays in preparation for Homecoming Oct. 9. An award for best class display inspired the Sophomores to build the most original, though precedent had chosen the winner years before in the Seniors. Floats varied from the winning Hi-Debs' entry, to the Junior Class military "bomb," and finally to a sarcastic attempt which read simply "Amen." In a morning assembly, students and alumni listened to former Student Body Presidents Doug Bowers and Bruce McMullin and heard the A Cappella sing in its first performance before the student body. Cast members from last year's performance of "Brigadoon" later sang numbers from the play. Sponsored by the Key Club, the blazing glory of the lighted "H" on the mountain side shone throughout the valley and evoked student anticipation for the Highland-West game the following day. During halftime, the Pep Club broke precedent by marching with the 80 alumni Pep Club members. An op art dance, decorated with black and white five foot cubes was held in the evening. The Bill Link combo performed around a huge center mobile, while the mood for dancing was set with a psychedelic light show. The night brought the final moments of remembering and "Raminiscence."

"For one brief shining moment . . ."

Camelot — strained voices, tired feet.
A director — caring, demanding, giving.
Emotions — fear, depression, anticipation, pride Challenges — work, and then,
Camelot — a reality.

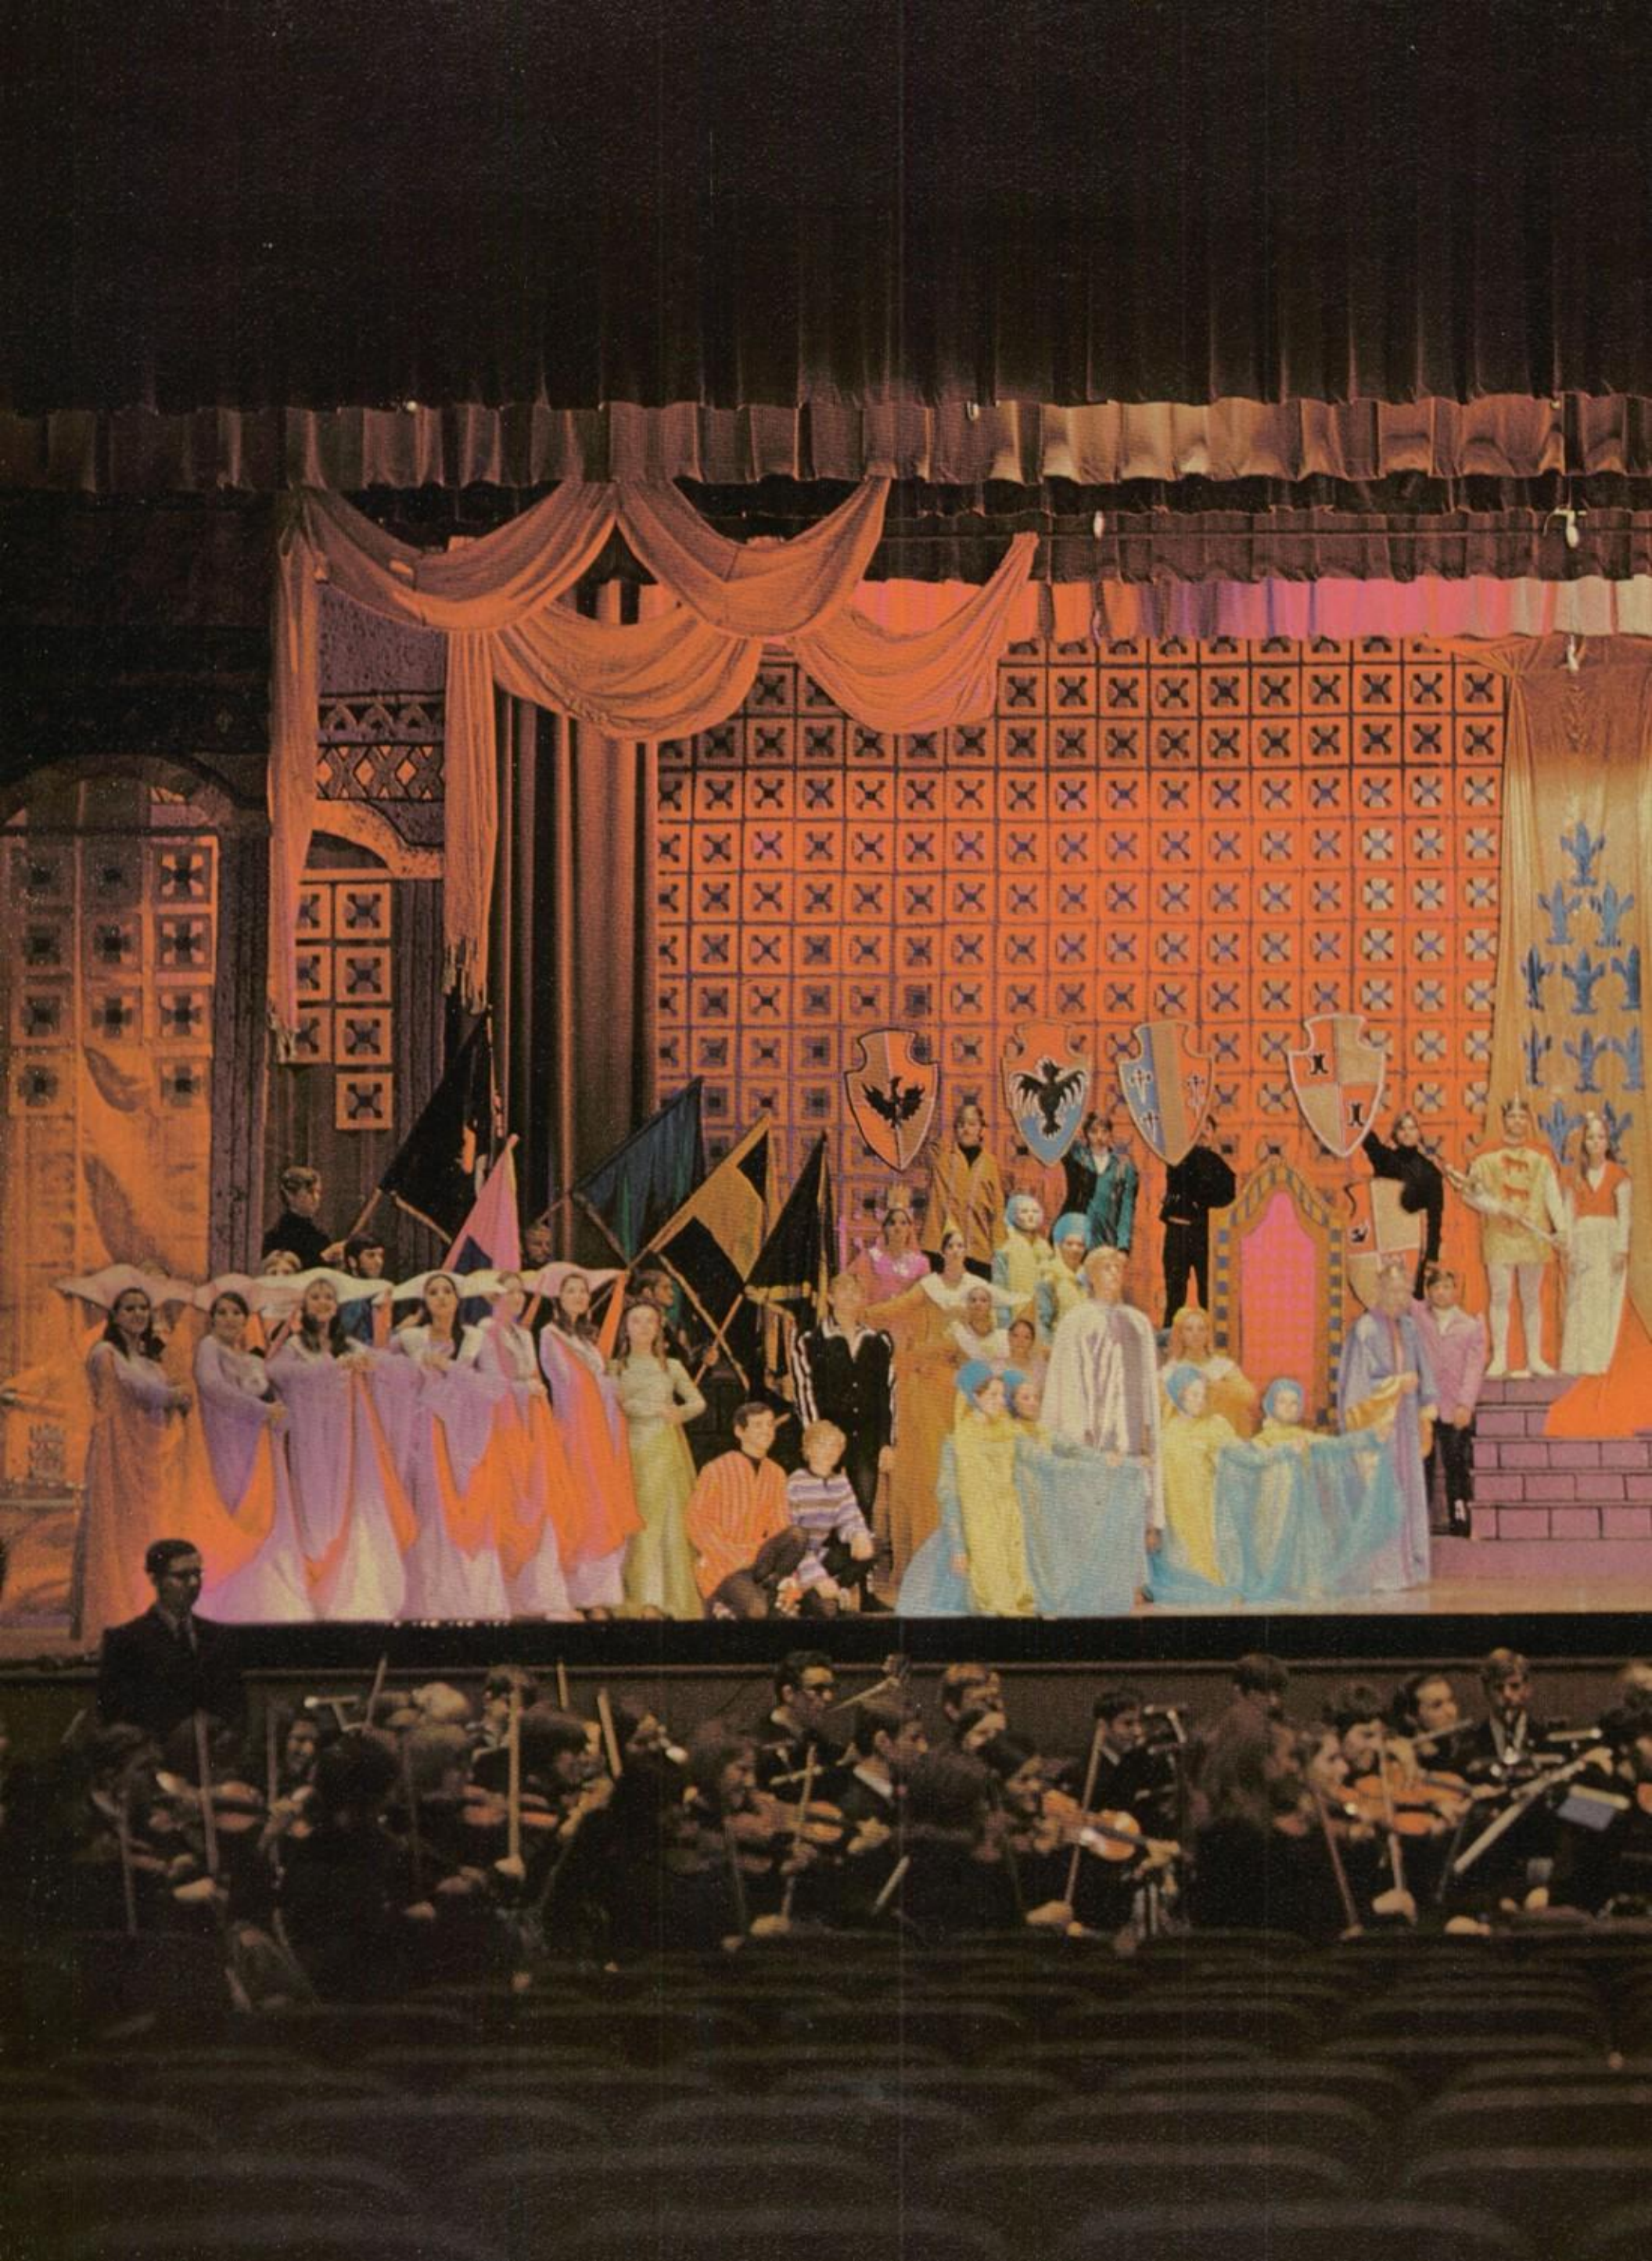
A time and place where people had a dream. A dream of the past for the present, and future. A message for all times . . . "Perhaps one day men will sit around this world as we once did at our table and go questing once more for right, and honor, and justice."



Parsley, sage, rosemary, and thyme, Thanksgiving seasons for a girl's choice dance — dimly-lit corners of fortune tellers, instant marriage ceremonies and kissing booths — potpourri that could only be inspired by the Pep Club — a Scarborough Affair to remember.

Some whimsical, some romantic, some extravagant — Highland's dances were as varied as the organizations that sponsored them. While the Pep Club reflected their personalties in the November 1 Thanksgiving carnival atmosphere of fortune tellers, marriage ceremonies, and secluded kissing booths, on December 21, the Board of Control presented an elegant and romantic mood at the Christmas dance with flocked trees, subdued lighting and multi-patterned snowflakes. A folk group, "The Five of Us" sang during the dancing interlude while the Merrill Smith Combo provided music for the rest of the evening. The feminine touch of H.A.W. officers and members set the mood for a pink and white "Cherries Hung With Snow" theme for the girls' dance, February 15. Hand painted white trees strung with angel hair, large paper flowers, and a center maypole wound in colors brought spring indoors while snow still lay on the ground.

dance concert mar. 20

On March 20, an unusual dance concert presented the skills of the dance club. Individual numbers ranged from Japanese dance to a psychological study of a family. Choreographed by concert members themselves, each dance was given special affects by lighting and sound techniques, including the music of Simon and Garfunkel, Dave Brubeck, and a special sitar number featuring James Warburton.

The annual Boys' Dance on March 21 was the successful end to a two-week beard growing contest. Couples in western grubs danced to the music of Sammy Gustafson and his orchestra in a setting of wagon wheels, "hitchin' posts," wildlife, wanted posters, and hay stacks.

Elections always bring elation for some, disappointment for many. For all, they bring involvement in the preparation of each candidate's campaign. There was a new anticipation for next year's students who await a "Challenge of Change" in Student Body President Tom Ellison with the assistance of other Student Body Officers: Gordie Hall, George Young, Susan Marsh and Diana Garff.

"The Apple Tree," a musical portraying the temptation of Adam and Eve, captured first place in the one-act play division for Region competition. The Nelson Eddy and Jeannette McDonald of Highland, Judd Funk and Jana Norton, portrayed the befallen couple as Gaylen Young displayed his talents, impersonating the serpent in his conquest of the woman. The play was chosen best of six presented on March 27, while nine students qualified in individual events.

The Junior Prom and Class parties bridged the feeling of restlessness which the spring months brought. Juniors were given a chance to prove their originality and creativeness by planning one of the special events of the year — the Junior Prom.

A change from the formality of status-quo dances were the uninhibited class parties. Chains, beads, cowboy boots, and sombreros all characterized the varied outfits of students "doing their own thing."

farewell assembly june 3

The final moments of the 1969 school year saw 2200 Highlanders recalling memories of the past year while creating new memories in their last activities. With the pressures of semester grades and graduation, Lagoon Day, May 20, provided an escape for students who radiated to centers of recreation throughout the valley — the parks, Great Salt Lake, golf courses, and the canyons, as well as Lagoon.

On May 29, Highlanders were presented with the 1969 Highlander in an assembly given by the Yearbook Staff. At the traditional yearbook party that evening, students expressed feelings and recorded memories by writing in each other's yearbooks.

Reminding Highlanders of a year already past, the final assembly, June 3, presented students with people, music and words from 1969. Leads from Camelot were echoes of a school play, it seemed, that was only yesterday; the Highland A Cappella sang for the last time; and Student Body President, Mike Coulam, told Highlanders of his feelings for Highland and 1969. In yet another echo, the Student Body Officers did an encore performance of their Hello Day skit, "You've Never Seen Anything Like It In Your Life." New officers were installed in a traditional candle-lit ceremony, and as Mike Coulam handed the gavel of Highland to new Student Body President, Tom Ellison, Highlanders realized that A Time of Triumph had made way for the Challenge of Change.

Standing here,
I could tell you what it means to remember all those times,
it seems,
I just belonged to.

I remember the first times,
when people were just faces,
then friends,
now some will become faces,
again.

There were times
of so many people,
then days when there was no one,
and I was alone.

But now it is over,
and standing here,
I wonder what I meant,
or if I meant anything at all.

Several versions of this sign appeared in the British Isles. They were prominent hanging decorations outside many public houses. The original sign's humor, depicting each figure within an individual panel, was much appreciated by our forebears in the 18th century. The first figure showed the symbol of a king, "I rule all," the second, a Parson, "I pray for all," the third a Lawyer, "I plead for all," the fourth, a Soldier, "I fight for all," and on the fifth panel, a Taxpayer, "I pay for all." Hence "The Five Alls." In a variation there were only four panels, the last one showing the Devil, "I take all."

in appreciation

So finally it has come to this . . .
the close of a book and the beginning of memories . . .
the way it always is, it seems.
We have realized Highland through its two thousand lives, here to be found
and remembered.
We thank our portrait photographer
Jan Griffen,
and the great people
at Wheelwrights;
Mr. Harold Petersen
and his invaluable art consultation;
then Mr. Dean Collett, our dedicated sponsor
and unselfish friend,
an unforgettable influence in our lives.
And now,
we come to the Twenty who helped create and fulfill a dream . . .

HIGHLANDER 1969
